

Perfect Speed

William Lansbury

Friday 26 January to Friday 23 February

In a couple of weeks 20 of the world's best drivers will be lining up on the grid in Bahrain for the beginning of a new season of rip roaring racing.

Another season of highs and lows, triumph and disappointment. It doesn't matter if you follow Formula 1, sports cars, touring cars or rallying because the will to win and the quest for perfect speed is the same.

This exhibition takes you on a race across France in a Bentley, the grid at Monaco to one of the most incredible victories in the Mille Miglia.

Every driver no matter what category they race in is searching for perfection, few ever manage to achieve this.

Fangio screaming through Casino Square and Stirling Moss winning the 1955 Mille Miglia are great examples of perfect speed.

Sometimes it is difficult to define perfection; perhaps Ayrton Senna and Alain Prost came close, Jim Clark and Jackie Stewart definitely did. The pictures in this exhibition give us a glimpse of verve and dedication needed to reach these heights.

Sometimes all you need to achieve the state of perfect speed is just to be there.
